All I can say is WOW if you love RVC Then you will love this!!! REALRace and RealFlight Have Nothing on this minus the graphics. Custom Track maker, Air, Land and Sea Vehicles!!!! Plenty Of Community made content and am very impressed that one guy is programming all this, Highly recommended for any r/c enthusiast A+++++++++. Very addictive, good game.. To start off this is a great game. Yes, it could use some MAJOR improvements like in the hud and animations, death screens, etc but considering it's a somewhat new game it's pretty good and it deserves more players. I enjoy playing the game but i think there should be different sounds, and again more features. i would like to ask again and would appreciate some major improvements. I got the game for free and it was mainly to idle it but when i opened the game i found it very addicting. Recommended.. A fun TBS in the likeness of King's Bounty and Heroes of Might & Magic III, though nowhere near as deep. You capture cities, build buildings that increase income and the like, buildings that let you recruit better and better units for your personal army, and conquer the enemies on the map.

It's a great TBS, however I recommend Genesis over Masters of the Broken World. It's basically an clunky-er update to Genesis, where other than the newer poorly optimized engine and and clunky UI, they're pretty much the same, so I recommend this cheaper version.. this go so cute i love this game many quest you can play it together with friends or another people custome your character and make party defeat the hard quest very cute and nice i love it. Pretty good and simple game. It's exactly what I expected; Awesome military dogfight, with a touch of futurism.. i love this its perfect and get it on sale its a nice dlc to have cause u get a nice kickstart and an exclusive cosmetic so its not like u couldve gotten it without paying plus u got the most popular most expensive skin container and two camos and the nice premium currencys and an overload of regular currency i recommend for people that want to get a really op turret or tank or something but end up short on currencys and want to look beastly this is the perfect one to get closer to ur dreams. AKA Sleep inducing simulator...

ZZZZZZZ..... Overall the game is good but for me the price is a bit too high.

The game is sort of boring without any in-depth storyline and geared more towards completing quests.

Not my styler personally as i am into story-driven First-person walking simulators.

Broken Reality contains the following gameplay mechanics:

- The game has an interesting and colorful environment.
- The game is basically a walking sim with quests.
- The game is slow-paced as you cannot run or jump.
- Collect likes and thumb up posts to get more likes.
- Take pictures to get more likes.
- Buy stuff with your credit card to get more likes.
- Destroy virus windows to gain access to blocked areas.

This game is great fun. I've never played the psychical game but I've owned and played enough table top sports games to know a gem when I see one. It looks and feels like a tabletop sports game. I'm just amazed by the look and feel of the game, the controls are on point! If you've ever played Foosball or Tabletop Basketball (you know the game where you press the buttons to pop the little plastic basketball in the net) it feels like those classic games. It has local and online play as well, so you and your friends can have a fun time playing this.

A few things holding the game back in my opinion are the following.

Every match is 3 minutes, you can't adjust the clock to your liking at all. I think adjusting clock is ideal for this game.

Whats a football game with out a cup tournament? I think this game would be even better with friendly matches and tournaments. Nothing is stopping you from setting up your own tournaments with pen and paper or a phone app though, but it would be nice to just have it built in the game.

Overall this is a fun game and who can beat the price?! If you're looking for a fun tabletop Football game to play with your friends at home or around the world or just play the brilliant A.I. solo., this is the game for you. So much fun and very well made.. A very enjoyable game, can get difficult but that's part of the fun. This is not a realistic ATC game but an arcade version. It's still very enjoyable. Buy the game to lose track of time. For a smooth playing experience of a similar game, go get Patricia IV. This hasn't aged well.. Not Bad Just a Pass Danger But don't worry and this is an Base of 143 franchises. More like Le Mans Simulator 2006

Still the pinnacle of endurance racing simulations. It's quite an old game so the physics aren't up to par with the likes of Assetto Corsa or rFactor 2, but they're still amazing to feel and drive. The AI fights for position, backs off when things get hairy and is aggressive if needed. Though they run on simplified physics which means they'll 'cheat' by having shorter braking distance than you. What really shines though is the 24hr races and ambience. Full 24-hour races, animated pitstops, dynamic weather with day/night cycles, full flag rules complete with pace car, crew chief that you can buzz for updates on your position and vehicle damage, FIA GT rule sets (must turn off car before refuelling), and a multitude of damage systems such as brakes, tyres, and aero to name a few.

IMPORTANT TO KNOW, by default the game sets affinity to only one core. Which means your FPS will drop harder than a boulder. After launching the game just set it to all cores via task manager and you'll be right as rain.

If you're a huge fan of endurance racing with full realism and complex damage systems then you'll love GTR2. 9 years on and still the best endurance racing sim on the market.. Caravanserail is notably £2, a very small sum of money though provides a game of obvious nature.

It's one of those games you'd play on the side as of when you feel as though you have nothing to play. It's a short 10 levels for the noted £2. The game felt very slow at the beginning, though as the game progressed it felt very challenging but then towards the end of the game, the pace really picked up and it seemed to be over too quickly.

It's a good game to get your brain going for example if you've got an exam later I would definitely recommend this and this mood swing does not only assist in having your brain work more actively but it also fabricates a mindset of which you'll crave the playing of other games you may own.. A very fun physics based music sandbox of sorts, if you're a fan of music and like the animusic series this game is a must
